

UNITED STATES DISTRICT COURT
WESTERN DISTRICT OF WASHINGTON
AT TACOMA

CINDY M. ESTRADA,

Plaintiff,

v.

COMMISSIONER OF SOCIAL SECURITY,

Defendant.

Case No. C18-5362-RSM

ORDER GRANTING IN PART AND
DENYING IN PART PLAINTIFF'S
COUNSEL'S MOTION FOR
ATTORNEY'S FEES AND EXPENSES
PURSUANT TO 28 U.S.C. § 2412

I. INTRODUCTION

This matter comes before the Court on Plaintiff's attorney Eitan Kassel Yanich ("Counsel")'s Motion for Attorney's Fees and Expenses Pursuant to 28 U.S.C. § 2412. Dkt. #61. Defendant Commissioner of Social Security (the "Commissioner") opposes Counsel's Motion arguing the Commissioner was substantially justified, the fees requested are unreasonable, and costs should be denied. Dkt. #64. Having considered the pleadings, the exhibits attached thereto, and the remainder of the record, the Court GRANTS IN PART and DENIES IN PART Counsel's Motion.

II. BACKGROUND

Plaintiff initiated this action for judicial review, under 42 U.S.C. §§ 405(g) and § 1383(c)(3), of the Commissioner of Social Security (the "Commissioner")'s final decision

1 denying her application for Title II Disability Insurance Benefits and Title XVI Supplemental
2 Security Income benefits. Dkt. #4. The Honorable Mary Alice Theiler, United States Magistrate
3 Judge, recommended that this Court affirm the decision of the Commissioner. Dkt. #16.
4 Considering Plaintiff's objections to Judge Theiler's Report and Recommendation ("R&R"), the 5 Court overruled the objections and adopted the R&R, affirming the Commissioner's decision.
6 Dkt. #19. Plaintiff appealed. Dkt. #22.

8 On March 31, 2021, the Ninth Circuit Court of Appeals issued a memorandum decision
9 concluding that administrative review of Plaintiff's application had not enjoyed the benefit of the 10 Ninth Circuit's decision in Revels v. Berryhill, 874 F.3d 648 (9th Cir. 2017). The Ninth Circuit
11 characterized Revels as "conclud[ing] that the [administrative law judge ("ALJ")] erred in 12 rejecting a claimant's testimony where the ALJ stated that the testimony was 'undercut by the 13 lack of "objective findings" supporting her claims of severe pain' because examinations showing
14 mostly normal results 'are perfectly consistent with debilitating fibromyalgia.'" Dkt. #27 at 2–3
15 (quoting Revels, 874 F.3d at 666). The Ninth Circuit therefore ordered that the Commissioner's 16 prior decision be vacated and that the matter be remanded for reconsideration by the ALJ. Id. at 17 3. The Ninth Circuit's mandate was issued on May 25, 2021. Dkt. #28.

20 Accordingly, this Court ordered that pursuant to sentence six of 42 U.S.C. § 405(g), the 21 matter was remanded for further administrative proceedings in a manner consistent with the 22 Ninth Circuit Court of Appeals' memorandum decision. Dkt. #29. The Court also issued an 23 Amended Judgment stating:

25 THE COURT HAS ORDERED THAT pursuant to sentence six of 42 U.S.C. § 405(g),
26 this matter is REMANDED for further administrative proceedings in a manner consistent
27 with the Ninth Circuit Court of Appeals' memorandum decision
28 Dkt. #30. The Amended Judgment did not make a finding as to whether the Commissioner's judgment was affirmed, modified, or reversed in light of the Ninth Circuit's memorandum

1 decision. See id. While the Court did not issue a final judgment, the issuing of a “judgment”
2 alone caused confusion.

3 Plaintiff subsequently filed a Motion for Attorney’s Fees, Cost, and Expenses Pursuant
4 to the EAJA (Dkt. #32) and a Motion to Correct Scrivener’s Error Pursuant to Fed. R. Civ. P. 60
5 (Dkt. #41).

7 On January 25, 2023, the Court denied Plaintiff’s Motion to Correct Scrivener’s Error
8 Pursuant to Fed. R. Civ. P. 60 (Dkt. #41), denied Plaintiff’s Motion for Attorney’s Fees, Cost,
9 and Expenses Pursuant to the Equal Access to Justice Act, 28 U.S.C. § 2412 (“EAJA”) (Dkt.
10 #32) as premature and remanded the matter for further administrative proceedings in a manner
11 consistent with the Ninth Circuit Court of Appeals’ memorandum decision. Dkt. #46.
12

13 On March 28, 2023, Plaintiff appealed the Court’s January 25, 2023 Order (Dkt. #47), 14 but her appeal was untimely. Thus, she sought leave to file an untimely appeal (Dkt. #48), which 15 the Court denied (Dkt. #55). Thereafter, the Ninth Circuit dismissed Plaintiff’s appeal. Dkt. #56.
16

17 On remand, the Commissioner ultimately found Plaintiff disabled. Dkts. #57–58. The 18 Court entered judgment accordingly. Dkt. #59. Counsel now seeks “an award of attorney’s fees 19 in the amount of $24,348.70 and expenses in the sum of $1,710.49” under EAJA, 28 U.S.C. §
20 2412. Dkts. #61–62.

21 III. ANALYSIS

22 A. Legal Standard

23 Under EAJA, the Court must award attorney’s fees to the prevailing party in an action
24 such as this unless it finds the government’s position was “substantially justified” or that special
25 circumstances make an award unjust. 28 U.S.C. § 2412(d)(1)(A). EAJA creates a presumption
26 that fees will be awarded to a prevailing party, but Congress did not intend fee shifting to be 27
28

1 mandatory. Flores v. Shalala, 49 F.3d 562, 567 (9th Cir. 1995); Zapon v. United States Dep't of
 2 Justice, 53 F.3d 283, 284 (9th Cir. 1995). Rather, the Supreme Court has interpreted the term
 3 “substantially justified” to mean that a prevailing party is not entitled to recover fees if the 4 government's position is “justified to a degree that could satisfy a reasonable person.” Pierce v.
 5 Underwood, 487 U.S. 552, 566 (1992). The decision to deny EAJA attorney’s fees is within the 6 discretion of the court. Lewis v. Barnhart, 281 F.3d 1081, 1083 (9th Cir. 2002). Attorney’s fees
 7 under EAJA must be reasonable. 28 U.S.C. § 2412(d)(2)(A); Hensley v. Eckerhart, 461 U.S.
 8 424, 433 (1983).

10 B. Substantial Justification

11 Where the Commissioner defends “basic and fundamental errors,” her defense often lacks 12 substantial justification. Corbin v. Apfel, 149 F.3d 1051, 1053 (9th Cir.1998). Defense of an 13 ALJ’S failure to comply with laws or regulations also lacks substantial justification. See 14 Gutierrez v. Barnhart, 274 F.3d 1255, 1259–60 (9th Cir.2001). On the other hand, where 15 resolution of the case turns on the weight and evaluation of the evidence, the Commissioner’s
 16 defense of the ALJ’s findings ordinarily is substantially justified. See O’Neal v. Astrue, 466 F.
 17 App’x 614, 615 (9th Cir. 2012) (citing Lewis v. Barnhart, 281 F.3d 1081, 1084, 1086 (9th 18 Cir.2002)). Further, for the issues decided by a court, “[t]he ‘position of the United States’
 19 includes both the government’s litigation position and the underlying agency action giving rise 20 to the civil action.” Tobeler v. Colvin, 749 F.3d 830, 832 (9th Cir. 2014) (quoting Meier v.
 21 Colvin, 727 F.3d 867, 870 (9th Cir.2013)).

22 Here, the Ninth Circuit vacated the denial of benefits and remanded this case for 23 reconsideration in light of Revels v. Berryhill, 874 F.3d 648 (9th Cir. 2017). Dkt. #27 at 2. The 24 Ninth Circuit stated:

1 The ALJ did not have the benefit of our decision in Revels, which was issued two
2 months after the ALJ's decision. In *Revels, we concluded that the ALJ erred in rejecting
3 a claimant's testimony where the ALJ stated that the testimony was "undercut by the lack 4 of 'objective findings' supporting her claims of severe pain" because examinations
5 showing mostly normal results "are perfectly consistent with debilitating fibromyalgia."
6 874 F.3d at 666. We noted that the ALJ's error "arose from an apparent fundamental 7 misunderstanding of fibromyalgia," id. at 662, and emphasized that fibromyalgia "is 8 diagnosed entirely on the basis of patients' reports of pain and other symptoms, and there
9 are no laboratory tests to confirm the diagnosis," id. at 666 (quotations omitted). Here, 10 in assessing the credibility of Estrada's symptoms testimony, the ALJ appears to 11 have similarly failed to construe the medical evidence "in light of fibromyalgia's 12 unique symptoms and diagnostic methods." Id. at 662. For this reason, we remand.

13 Id. at 2–3.

14 The Commissioner argues that the Ninth Circuit did not identify a factual error in 15 reversing the ALJ's decision, but rather issues of articulation and law. Dkt. #64 at 4.
16 Specifically, by stating "[t]he ALJ did not have the benefit of our decision in Revels," the 17 Commissioner argues that the Ninth Circuit acknowledged that the law was in flux. Id. The 18 Commissioner notes that the Ninth Circuit has repeatedly affirmed that the Commissioner is 19 substantially justified where a binding decision changed the legal landscape after the ALJ's
20 decision. Id. at 5 (citing e.g., Trujillo v. Berryhill, 700 F. App'x 764, 766 (9th Cir. 2017)
21 (unpublished); Rounds v. Berryhill, 697 F. App'x 511, 512 (9th Cir. 2017) (unpublished); Allen-
22 Howard v. Comm'r Soc. Sec. Admin., 615 F. App'x 402, 403 (9th Cir. 2015) (unpublished); Ayala
23 v. Colvin, 584 F. App'x 776, 777 (9th Cir. 2014) (unpublished)). Further, the Commissioner
24 points out that the Appeals Council acknowledged that the ALJ "sufficiently considered
25 [Estrada's] fibromyalgia/pain disorder in the decision and the reduced light residual functional
26 capacity sufficiently accounts for limitations caused by the claimant's fibromyalgia/pain
27 disorder." Id. (citing Tr. 330). Thus, the Commissioner argues she was substantially justified in 28 defending the ALJ's rationale.

1 In response, Counsel argues that even if the Commissioner had a reasonable basis in fact
2 and in law defending the final decision, she has not proven that the ALJ's underlying action was 3 substantially justified. Dkt. #65 at 3. Counsel notes that the Appeals Council had knowledge of 4 the Revels decision, yet failed to take any action to address the ALJ's error and therefore the 5 Commissioner's underlying administrative decision was not substantially justified. Further,
6 while the ALJ may not have had the benefit of the Revels decision, the Commissioner's attorney
7 did as Revels was published in October 2017—a full year before the Commissioner filed her
8 district court brief in this case. See Dkt. #14. Finally, Counsel rejects the Commissioner's 9 position that Revels changed the “legal landscape” as the issue of how an ALJ should evaluate 10 fibromyalgia was addressed in several Ninth Circuit decisions prior to Revels. See Dkt. #65 at 4
11 (citing Benecke v. Barnhart, 379 F.3d 587, 594 (9th Cir. 2004) (“[T]he ALJ erred in discounting
12 the opinions of Benecke's treating physicians, relying on his disbelief of Benecke's symptom
13 testimony as well as his misunderstanding of fibromyalgia. The ALJ erred by “effectively 14 require[ing] ‘objective’ evidence for a disease that eludes such measurement)). Ultimately, 15 Counsel argues, “[t]he underlying basis for the Revels decision – that there are impairments that 16 cause pain that cannot be objectively measured – has been well-established Ninth Circuit law for 17 decades.” See id., n.12 (citing Cotton v. Bowen, 799 F.2d 1403, 1407-08 (9th Cir. 1986) (excess 18 pain testimony cannot be discredited solely on the ground that it is not fully corroborated by 19 objective medical findings); Gonzales v. Sullivan, 914 F.2d 1197, 1201 (9th Cir. 1990) (excess
20 pain testimony will always be “out of proportion to the medical evidence”); Light v. SSA, 119
21 F.3d 789, 792 (9th Cir. 1997) (when a claimant “suffers from infirmities that could cause pain, 22 he “need not present medical evidence to support the severity of the pain.””); Laborin v.
24
25
26
27
28

1 Berryhill, 867 F.3d 1151, 1153 (9th Cir. 2017) (ALJ must take “the claimant’s subjective
2 experiences of pain” into account when determining the RFC).

3 The Court agrees with Counsel, that the Commissioner (unlike the ALJ) did have the 4 benefit of Revels when she filed her responsive brief in this matter, and as such the 5 Commissioner’s litigation position was not substantially justified. In fact, the cases the 6 Commissioner cites to support her position ultimately supports the Court’s finding that her
7 litigation position was unreasonable. See Dkt. #65 at 4 (collecting cases where “the Ninth Circuit
8 has repeatedly affirmed that the Commissioner is substantially justified where a binding decision
9 changed the legal landscape after the ALJ’s decision.”). First, the Commissioner cites to Rounds
10 v. Berryhill, 697 F. App’x 511, 512 (9th Cir. 2017). In Rounds, the Ninth Circuit factored the 11 timing of the change in law into its decision stating “because Zavalin [, the decision resulting in 12 a change of law,] was not issued until after the briefing on appeal in this case closed, the 13 Commissioner’s litigation position was also not unreasonable.” Rounds, 697 F. App’x at 512.
14 Next, the Commissioner cites to Allen-Howard v. Comm’r Soc. Sec. Admin., 615 F. App’x 402,
15 403 (9th Cir. 2015). Similarly, the Ninth Circuit stated “[t]he Commissioner’s litigation position
16 in the district court was also substantially justified. As noted, there was no controlling authority
17 on the question raised in Allen–Howard’s appeal at the time the Commissioner filed its briefing.”
18 However, unlike in Rounds and Allen-Howard, the controlling authority in Revels had already 19 been issued rendering the Commissioner’s litigation position unreasonable and not substantially 20 justified.
21
22
23
24

25 C. Special Circumstances

26 The Court may deny fees if special circumstances render fees unjust. 28 U.S.C. §
27 2412(d)(1)(A). The burden of proving the special circumstances exception to the mandatory
28

1 award of fees under the EAJA rests with the government. Love v. Reilly, 924 F.2d 1492, 1495
2 (9th Cir. 1991). The Commissioner argues that Counsel did not raise the sole issue that yielded
3 remand in the opening brief to Magistrate Judge Theiler (Dkt. #10) or in the reply brief (Dkt.
4 #15), but that Counsel only cited Revels in the objection to the R&R, but made no specific 5 arguments related to its application to Plaintiff's complaints. Dkt. #64 at 7 (citing Dkt. #17 at 6).
6 The Commissioner further notes that Counsel's opening brief on appeal included only three 7 conclusory sentences pertaining to the sole issue that yielded remand. Id. (citing Dkt. #37-3). In 8 sum, the Commissioner argues that the Court "should find that Estrada's briefing created a 9 special circumstance that would make an award of fees unjust or at least warrant a reduction of 10 fees for the time spent briefing the case on the merits prior to the Ninth Circuit's remand." Id.

13 In response, Counsel argues that the Commissioner "does not cite any controlling or 14 persuasive legal authority that supports her argument that 'Estrada's briefing created a special 15 circumstance that would make an award of fees unjust or at least warrant a reduction of fees...'"
16 Dkt #65 at 5 (citing Dkt. #64 at 7).
17

18 The Court agrees with Counsel. Limited citations to a change in law in Plaintiff's briefing
19 are not the sort of special circumstances that this Court and the Ninth Circuit have found render 20 EAJA fees unjust. See Love v. Reilly, 924 F.2d 1492, 1495 (9th Cir. 1991) (discussing the issue 21 of free rider plaintiffs as a potential "special circumstance"); see Washington Dep't of Wildlife v.
22 Stubblefield, 739 F. Supp. 1428, 1432 (W.D. Wash. 1989) (discussing the presence of parties 23 ineligible for fees as a possible special circumstance). In fact, this Court has specifically stated
24 that "[w]hether a litigated issue is one of first impression" is not properly considered as a special
25 circumstance justifying the refusal of an award of fees. Gutierrez v. Barnhart, 274 F.3d 1255,
26 1261 (9th Cir. 2001).
27
28

D. Reasonableness of Requested Fees

If the Court finds fees are warranted, the Commissioner alternatively requests the Court reduce the fees to a more reasonable amount. Dkt. #64 at 8.

The Court may award EAJA fees for attorney hours reasonably expended by Plaintiff's counsel. 28 U.S.C. § 2412(d)(2)(A). "The most useful starting point for determining the amount of a reasonable fee is the number of hours reasonably expended on the litigation multiplied by a reasonable hourly rate." Hensley v. Eckerhart, 461 U.S. 424 (1983). "[E]xcessive, redundant, or otherwise unnecessary" hours should be excluded from the fee award. Id. at 434, 103 S.Ct. 1933. The Court must also consider the results obtained when determining whether the fees requested by a prevailing party for an unsuccessful appeal are reasonable. Atkins v. Apfel, 154 F.3d 986, 989 (9th Cir. 1998) (citing Hensley, 461 U.S. at 437).

"[T]he fee applicant bears the burden of establishing entitlement to an award and documenting the appropriate hours expended[.]" Hensley, 461 U.S. at 437, 103 S.Ct. 1933. "[T]he party opposing the fee application has a burden of rebuttal that requires submission of evidence to the district court challenging the accuracy and reasonableness of the hours charged or the facts asserted by the prevailing party in its submitted affidavits." Gates v. Deukmejian, 987 F.2d 1392, 1397-98 (9th Cir. 1992) (citations omitted).

The Commissioner first argues that per Hensley, the Court should reduce fees because the matter was overstaffed and yielded redundant work. Dkt. #64 at 8 (citing Hensley, 461 U.S. at 434). Plaintiff had two attorneys. Attorney Yanich was not retained until the Court entered judgment. See Dkt. #21 (Notice of Association of Attorney by Eitan Kassel Yanich). The Commissioner argues that hiring a separate attorney, from a separate law firm to handle the appeal yielded redundant work and thus recommends excluding the 3.9 hours ($800.48) spent on

1 redundant file review on August 27 and 28, 2019. Id. (citing Dkt. #61-2 at 1). Counsel notes that
2 it is not unusual for a different attorney to be hired for appellate work—the Court agrees. The 3 Court does not find file review by an attorney specifically hired to handle an appeal to be 4 “redundant” and will not exclude the 3.9 hours spent on August 27 and 28, 2019.

5 Next, the Commissioner requests that Attorney Laffoon not be compensated for the 27.2
6 hours ($5,483.52) spent between August 2018 and October 2018 on district court briefing. Id.
7 (citing Dkt. #61-2). The Commissioner notes that Plaintiff neither mentioned fibromyalgia or 8 Revels in Plaintiff’s opening brief (Dkt. #10), nor in her reply brief (Dkt. #15), but for the first 9 time only in Plaintiff’s objections to Magistrate Judge Theiler’s R&R (Dkt. #17 at 6). The 10 Commissioner argues that Counsel should therefore not be compensated for failing to timely 11 brief the sole issue that yielded relief. Dkt. #64 at 9.

12 In response, Counsel argues that the ALJ’s error requiring reversal was his failure to fully 13 accept Estrada’s testimony about her pain, by incorrectly applying an objective medical evidence 14 standard to symptoms that elude objective measurement. Counsel notes that throughout the 15 4600-page record, spanning eight years, Plaintiff’s pain was identified with varying terms, 16 including “pain,” “chronic pain syndrome,” “fibromyalgia,” “complex” pain, and 17 “multifactorial” pain. Dkt. #65 at 6 (citing Tr. 1104, 971, 841, 971, 1062, 1104, 2178, 3967).
18 The Court agrees that the issue here was the ALJ’s failure “to construe the medical evidence ‘in 19 light of fibromyalgia’s unique symptoms and diagnostic methods.’ Dkt. #27 at 2–3.

20 The Court finds that it will not reduce fees because Plaintiff’s counsel failed to cite the 21 standard (Revels) by which the ALJ should have assessed Plaintiff’s testimony about her pain
22 until after the initial round of briefing. The Commissioner should have been aware of that 23
25
26
27
28

1 standard either way and the Court does not find that Counsel failed to appropriately describe or
2 represent Plaintiff's pain testimony.

3 Third, the Commissioner seeks to exclude the 6.9 hours ($1,416.23) spent on the 4 objection to the report and recommendation (Dkt. #61-2 at 3) "because this Court noted numerous 5 deficiencies in the objection and the objection did directly raise the issue that yielded remand."
6 Dkt. #64 at 9 (citing Dkt. #19 at 3 ("Plaintiff provides no legal support for her position and instead
7 advances broad policy arguments."); id. at 4 (finding the objections did not comply with Fed. R.
8 Civ. P. 72(b)(2)); id. at 5 (finding "Plaintiff fails to support the argument beyond the basic 9 allegation"). The Court declines to exclude those hours in light of the Ninth Circuit's decision.
10

11 Fourth, the Commissioner seeks to exclude a portion of time spent on the opening 12 appellate brief, specifically 9 hours ($1,870) or one-third of the 27 briefing hours spent from 13 January 2, 2020, and February 20, 2020. Dkt. #64 at 9 (citing Dkt. #61-2 at 1). The 14 Commissioner argues that "in addition to containing redundant work to the district court briefing, 15 the argument that yielded remand amounted to only three conclusory sentences in the brief." Id.
16 (citing Dkts. #14 at 39-40, #37-2). In response, Counsel argues that the amount of time expended
17 preparing the brief was reasonable in light of the lengthy court transcript. Dkt. #65 at 6.
18 Specifically, Counsel's declaration states that the court transcript was over 4700 pages long and 19 admits that not representing Plaintiff in the district court proceedings contributed to the hours 20 spent preparing for the appeal and thus the briefing.
21

22 The Court has examined Counsel's fee request for the appellate briefing and finds it
23 reasonable. The case involved a lengthy transcript which Counsel obviously had to review and 24 analyze in preparing his briefs. The Commissioner's argument that Counsel could have done the 25 briefing quicker is subjective, and an argument that can always be made in every case.
26
27
28

1 Fifth, the Commissioner asks the Court to exclude the .5 hours of paralegal time and the
2 1.2 hours of attorney time spent on July 28, 2021, preparing the EAJA petition. Dkt. #64 at 9.
3 The Commissioner argues that Court ultimately denied this petition as premature (Dkt. #46) and 4 this time is redundant of the time spent on September 14, 2023, preparing the instant EAJA
5 petition. Dkt. #46 at 9 (citing Dkt. #61-2 at). The Court agrees with the Commissioner and will
6 exclude the .5 hours of paralegal time and the 1.2 hours of attorney time spent on July 28, 2021,
7 preparing the initial EAJA petition.

9 Sixth, the Commissioner argues that Plaintiff “unduly and unreasonably protracted the 10 final resolution of the matter in controversy.” Dkt. #46 at 9 (quoting 28 U.S.C. § 2412(d)(1)(C)).
11 The Commissioner complains of the premature petition for fees (Dkt. #21), an extension of time
12 (Dkt. #38), a motion to amend (Dkt. #41), and an untimely appeal (Dkt. #47). Id. at 10. The 13 Commissioner states that “Attorney Yanich commendably excluded the time for these litigation
14 activities from the amount sought here,” but that the Court should still impose a “10% haircut on 15 Attorney Yanich’s overall fee award to account for the protracted litigation between July 29,
16 2021, and June 1, 2023.” Id. Considering Counsel already excluded the time for these activities,
17 and Counsel’s arguments for why the activities were not the result of undue or unreasonable
18 protraction of the litigation, the Court denies the Commissioner’s request to impose a “10% 19 haircut.”
20
21

22 Seventh, the Commissioner requests that the Court deny $1,503.00 in copying costs. Dkt.
23 #64 at 10–12. In response, Counsel withdraws the request for expenses for the cost of copying
24 and limits the request to reimbursement for $207.49 for the expense of postage. Dkt. #65 at 8.
25 The Court therefore excludes Counsel’s request for $1,503.00 for expenses – copying 15,030
26 pages. See Dkt. #61-2 at 2.
27
28

1 E. Fees-for-Fees

2 Given that Counsel's Motion for Attorney's Fees and Expenses Pursuant to 28 U.S.C. §
3 2412 is in part successful, the Court recognizes that Counsel reserves the right to award additional 4 attorney's fees for the time reasonably expended defending the Motion.

5 IV. CONCLUSION

6 Counsel's Motion for Attorney's Fees and Expenses Pursuant to 28 U.S.C. § 2412 (Dkt.
7 #61) is GRANTED IN PART and DENIED IN PART.

8 Plaintiff is awarded fees in the amount of $24,037.21 ($24,348.70 in attorney fees
9 requested, less $256.49 and $55 of attorney and paralegal fees respectively incurred in relation
10 to the initial EAJA petition on July 28, 2021) and $207.49 in expenses (less $1,503.00 incurred
11 for copying costs), subject to any offset allowed under the Treasury Offset Program. See 12 Astrue v. Ratiff, 560 U.S. 586, 589–590 (2010).

13 The Acting Commissioner shall contact the Department of Treasury after this Order is 14 entered to determine if the EAJA Award is subject to any offset. If the U.S. Department of the 15 Treasury verifies to the Office of General Counsel that Plaintiff does not owe a debt, the 16 government will honor Plaintiff's assignment of EAJA Award and pay the EAJA Award directly
17 to Plaintiff's counsel. If there is an offset, any remainder shall be made payable to Plaintiff, 18 based on the Department of the Treasury's Offset Program, and the payment shall be 19 electronically deposited to Plaintiff's attorney Eitan Kassel Yanich at his address: Eitan Kassel
